THOSE WHO VOTE
MUST REGISTER.*Connellsville Is Now a Third
Class City Rules State
Secretary.*CHANGES ARE IMPORTANT

Under the Law Only Those Voters Who Register in Person on August 31, September 5 and September 10 Can Vote—Registrars to be Appointed.

That Connellsville is now a third class city and the coming election must be held under the laws governing municipalities of that class is the decision of Secretary of State Robert McFadden, communicated to Secretary J. Fred Kurtz of the Chamber of Commerce last night. This ruling means that voters who expect to cast their ballots of the November election must register in person. It was the prevailing opinion that the third class city laws would not be applicable until after the new officers had been elected and a new office had been opened Monday in December, but the Secretary of State rules otherwise.

It will be necessary to have registrars appointed as soon as possible. This is done by the County Commissioners. Under the law the registrars should be appointed not later than June 15, beginning in 1912, so that these officers may have been appointed without conflicting with the provisions of the new election code.

Personal registration will be in effect in Connellsville for the first time this year. Under its requirements, every voter must register in person before the registrars if he expects to vote. This does not apply for registration in odd numbered years are the tenth Thursday, ninth Tuesday and eighth Saturday prior to the November election, which comes November 7 this year. The dates for registration are August 31, September 5 and September 10. The personal registration requirement will, it is claimed by its advocates, eliminate to a large extent the "floaters." It will also eliminate some "good citizens" who fail to register and then spend the balance of an administration kicking against the men who were elected to office.

To the candidates and political managers it means practically two elections because it is necessary not only to get the voters to the polls on election day, but also to have them registered on the allotted days. It is necessary to register each year.

Although the Registrar Assessors have registered the voters of town their work will have been for naught, under the ruling of Secretary of State McFadden. Only those who register in person will be permitted to vote. The personal registration requirement will make it possible for those interested to scrutinize the polling lists before each election and to investigate whether there are illegal voters registered thereon.

The registrars are appointed by the County Commissioners for a term of four years. There must be two in each ward, one representing the party polling the highest vote in excess of two per cent at the last Presidential election and the other representing the party polling the next highest vote. In Connellsville this limits the registrars to Republicans and Democrats.

Secretary McFadden holds that Connellsville is now a third class city, having reached that estate on the day and date Governor John K. Tener affixed his signature to the new letters patent.

Dunbar Sees Boom Coming Right Along

Dunbar sees signs of returning prosperity and residents there are hopeful that before many weeks have elapsed the payrolls will begin to assume their old time size. The United Fire Brick Company, it is said, will resume in full on Wednesday. This plant has been shut down for a time and when it did run for some months past the men were only on half time. When resumption comes it will be on full running time. The company has a number of good orders to be filled that will insure steady running for a number of months, it is said.

It is said the Sunset-Solway Company will in the near future put its men back on full time and fire a number of additional by-product coke ovens. This is good news for Dunbar business men.

Boy Drowned at Masontown.
Andy Schulte, aged 15, was drowned yesterday while swimming in the Monongahela river near the Masontown brewery. His body became entangled in some old wire at the bottom of the stream.

DOGS BALK CARPENTERS;
CONSTABLE SHOTS THEM.*Frick Employees Would Not Go to Work Until Canines Had Been Exterminated Today.

Because vicious dogs at Leisening No. 1 interfered with carpenters of the H. C. Frick Coke Company working on the company houses there, Superintendent C. B. Franks secured authority from the County Commissioners to have a wholesale extermination of the canines. This morning the carpenters feared to go to work because of the threatening attitude of the dogs. They complained to Mr. Franks, who took quick action.

Constable William Roland of Dunbar township, immediately upon receiving authority from the County Commissioners, took his gun and went to Leisening. He was accompanied by Ben Peters of the West Side, also armed.

The two men walked up two streets in Leisening and in less than an hour had killed 31 dogs. Superintendent Franks wants all the worthless canines exterminated and Constable Roland expects to make another trip either this afternoon or early next week. None of the dogs killed wore collars or tags, as required by law. Eight or ten were unusually large and particularly ill-mannered.

CONTRACT IS LET
FOR FIRE HOUSE.*Money Will Come Some Way
Reports the Finance Committee.*CONSTRUCTION CO. GETS IT

Rejected Because No Certified Check Was Enclosed—Much Objection; Little Opposition.

Town Council last evening at an adjourned meeting awarded the contract for the new fire house to the Connellsville Construction Company for $11,995. The bid of the Keystone Planning Mill Company was rejected because a certified check for $500 was not enclosed. The bid was the lowest submitted—$11,500. The Keystone firm claimed the specifications did not require the certified check and acted upon the assumption that the specifications took precedence over the advertisement for proposals. Council did not agree with that argument.

OTHER WOMAN LOVES HIM

"Rather Than Have Him Go to Electric Chair I Would Confess I Killed His Wife Myself," She Says—Her Story Surprises Evelyn Thaw's.

United Press Telegram.
RICHMOND, Va., July 22.—Light-hearted and debonair, Henry, Clay Beattie, Jr., today sat in the Richmond jail, smoking his cigarette and laying plans for defending himself of the charge of wife murder.

Over in the Beattie house in Man chester the father of the man arrested for the murder of his young wife, is tenderly caring for his five weeks old grandson, the only member of the family now left with him. The boy's mother was shot to death and his father is in jail.

Never since Evelyn Nesbit Thaw thrilled New York with the story of her life has there been told a story that surpassed the tale of love and death told by Beattie Beattie, the pot-ite 17 year old mother-in-law in the case.

For four years she has been intimately connected with the life of young Beattie, who is today languishing in the Richmond jail. That she loved him devotedly is seen in her reply when asked, "Do you love Henry Beattie?" she replied:

"Rather than see him go to the electric chair, I would confess that I killed his wife myself."

New Locomotive
for I. C. V. Road

The Indian Creek Valley railroad has purchased a new locomotive for freight and heavy passenger traffic. It is a 73 ton Baldwin consolidated and should reach Indian Creek today. The new engine is 21 tons heavier than any other locomotive on Charles F. Hood's line.

Although designed for freight service the locomotive will be pressed into passenger service when exceptionally heavy excursions must be drawn.

Mr. Hood is pleased with the showing of his 62 ton engines. One of them hauled a 10 car train, filled with members of the Miller clan, to Killarney park without difficulty Thursday.

Chases Burglar
Over Housetop

Officer William Stoner gave chase to an unknown burglar last night who was detected in an attempt to break into the Bazaar store by means of a skylight. Small boys detected the marauder as he was clambering to the roof of the North Pittsburg street building from a rear alley.

The boys also discovered the man was armed with a revolver. They hastened to Stoner, who responded to the call. When the burglar saw the officer approaching he made a hasty retreat, and managed to escape from the roof without being apprehended.

HORSES PLUNGED THROUGH BARBED WIRE; NOT HURT.*Remarkable Runaway at Owensdale That Threatened Serious Consequences to Steeds.

The remarkable feat of runaway horses plunging through a five-strand barbed wire fence without receiving a scratch happened yesterday near Owensdale when the team owned by Nathaniel King took fright and bolted. It was a thrilling sight, filled with spectacular features. Mr. King was driving the team but leaped to safety when the horses first took the bite in their teeth and bolted.

The team turned in at the King barn but found the doors closed. They smashed a hay rake and continued along the line fence for some distance, narrowly missing a peacefully inclined cow which browsed in the field. The horses swerved to the left and took through the barbed wire fence, escaping injury although the wagon broke one post off at the ground. The team dashed out upon the public road and down the steep King hill, narrowly missing a pedestrian.

At the home of Mine Foreman Muir the horses leaped through the fence, which was smashed to kindling wood by the wagon, which then overturned, one of the horses fell and the runaway was at an end. A dog enjoyed the wild ride in the wagon and leaped only when the vehicle overturned. He resumed his seat on the wagon and defied all comers until Mr. King arrived. The horses were unhurt and the harness remained intact throughout the flight.

THIS IS THE DAY THEY GO.*"Dictionary Day" Begins Daily
Courier's Distribution
in Connellsville.*COME EARLY TO GET YOURS

The Distribution Will Start This Afternoon and Indications Are That the $4.00 Style Will Be a Leader. Clip Your Coupons; Only Six Required.

Today is Dictionary Day. Come early and avoid the rush of the wise ones who will seek to take advantage of The Daily Courier's offer of a Webster's New Standard Dictionary, illustrated, for six coupons clipped from consecutive issues of the paper and a small expense bonus. Early this afternoon the dictionary distribution will start, and judging from the crowds that have been examining the volume during the past few days, they are going to go like the proverbial hot cakes.

"It looks like a Bible" is what they all say. The comment is justified, as the book is made up of the best print on the best Bible paper. In fact, as the work is almost as indispensable, the dictionary should be placed beside the Bible on every book shelf, no matter whether it be five feet or fifty feet in length. In appearance it is a fit companion volume of the best Bible ever printed.

A dictionary of such common sense size and compiled in such a comprehensive manner is just as indispensable to the business man as the telephone book or the city directory.

It is not how much knowledge you have but how much knowledge you use that counts in your work, and it is the same with books. You might have the largest dictionary or encyclopedia in the world, but it would not do you as much good as the dictionary which The Courier offers its readers. The volume is small enough to keep constantly at your elbow and you will use it ten times to the once you will cross the room to consult the big Webster's on the stand or table, and that you will use it a hundred times more than you will use a library or encyclopedia.

A well known business man explained yesterday why he was clipping the dictionary coupons. A visitor noticed that he was preparing to secure a dictionary from The Daily Courier and expressed his surprise, as he had a big volume of Webster's in his office.

"I want that flexible leather dictionary," he said "It's the handiest book of the kind I've ever seen and the most complete. Do you know most people don't realize how many new words are placed in our language every year. This book is up to date and I need it in my business. It's dollars to doughnuts that I'll use it ten times as much as I ever used that cumbersome one. This Courier book is a library at your elbow."

If you have not started clipping already, start now.

You can get any one of the three styles of books by mail by sending the six consecutive coupons, the expense bonus and 22 cents postage.

Fall in Barn

Today the lad is still in a comatose condition and the attending physicians fear his brain may be affected. Mr. King has been unfortunate of late. Last week his grandson, Nathaniel, ran the prong of a hay fork into his right leg and yesterday one of his teams ran off.

Georgian Young Refuses to Quit

United Press Telegram.
CLEVELAND, O., July 22.—That the $50,000 breach of promise suit of Miss Georgian Young of Pittsburgh against Millionaire James W. Corrigan of this city will be reopened is the prediction placed today on the arraignment of Michaelovitz Thomas on the charge of perjury.

Thomas, who was a witness in the case when judgment was returned in Corrigan's favor, testified that he had spent a night with Miss Young at a hotel, had given her $5 and had been relieved of $157. Detectives in Miss Young's employ who have been on Thomas' trail, declare they now have an affidavit from Thomas to the effect that he never saw Miss Young until he testified against her in the court room. Thomas has been bound over to the common pleas court, and it is believed the case against him will be used by Miss Young as a basis for reopening her case against Corrigan.

R. post here endorsed asking the appointing powers to retain him on the board. Whether this petition had any weight or not he was retained and served until he left it of his own volition.

Baby Contest Drew Crowd

One of the great attractions of the closing night of the annual garden party of the United Presbyterian church held on the Colonial lawn was the baby contest, which took place early in the evening. Many babies accompanied by their parents were present and were entered in the contest. The judges were Mrs. George Stauffer, Mrs. C. W. Lynn and Miss Belle McDonald, and they had a difficult task before them, as a prettier gathering of babies was never seen in Connelleville. Daintily gowned in white the little tots presented were admired by all. The small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dudge was voted the most popular and prettiest baby girl, while the little son of Mr. and Mrs. James Long was voted the prettiest boy baby present. The shortest baby present was the small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Long and the heaviest baby was Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Neochler's baby.

The affair was a grand success. The articles at the different booths were all disposed of and quite a nice sum was realized from the automobile rides. The attendance would no doubt have been much larger both evenings had it not been for the threatening weather. The attendance last evening was much larger than the first evening. The chairman of the different committees and their aides worked untiringly toward the success of the party and too much credit cannot be given them for the manner in which they looked after all the details.

ADVERTISING.
THE DAILY COURIER is the only daily newspaper in the Connelleville coke region which has the honesty and courage to print the exact number of copies of each issue. Other papers put forth some extravagant claims, but furnish no figures. Advertising rates on application.
THE WEEKLY COURIER is the recognized organ of the Connelleville coke trade. It has special value as an industrial journal and an advertising medium for such interests.

SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 22, '11.

WANTS TO BE

AGAINST ITSELF.

Confronted with its own detailed sworn statement of circulation made for the 1911 newspaper directories, the Uniontown Herald would have us believe that its circulation has wonderfully increased since that statement was made; in fact, that it has increased more than 1,000; and, furthermore, The Herald wants to bet on it.

The betting habit is quite common in some sporting circles, but business men do not regard it with favor nor do they accept it as conclusive evidence of good faith.
According to the best information, INCLUDING THE VERY RECENT TESTIMONY OF THE HERALD ITSELF, The Courier has by odds the largest circulation of any daily newspaper printed in Fayette county or the Connelleville coke region.

We can, therefore, only repeat what we have already said, namely, that if the present claims of The Herald about its foundation in fact THE PUBLISHERS ARE DOING THEMSELVES A SERIOUS INJUSTICE BY HIDING THEIR ARGUMENT OF CIRCULATION GLORY UNDER THE HALF-BURIED MEASURE OF DOUBT AND MYSTERY.

The Courier is the only newspaper in Fayette county which takes the public frankly into its confidence in the matter of circulation. It does not try to deceive its advertisers by high Water Marks or Bluffing Propositions or Unworthy Insinuations.
We refuse to permit The Herald to bet against itself. Its circulation claims must stand as made.

THE MODERN GAME OF TRUST-BUSTING.

The political hucksters who are investigating all manner of corporations with a view to annihilating the wicked Trusts and protecting the dear People from cruel oppression have been compelled in some instances to admit that their assumptions have not been wholly correct.

It has been discovered that the United States Steel Corporation has no monopoly of coke and coal, and its recent purchase of the coke interests of the Pittsburgh Coal Company will not consequently be disturbed. We will be a thing of the Pittsburgh Coal Company's stockholders if the sale were set aside. They were anxious enough to make the bargain. When people are satisfied to trade, rank outsiders, even though they may be stateless, have no moral right to butt in.

There are a great many things being done now under cover of modern law, which some years ago when the Constitution was always the Higher Law, would have been impossible. There is a growing suspicion that judicial decisions are sometimes awayed by partisan prejudice and sometimes tainted with demagoguery.

The stability of the government lies largely in the judiciary. Let the politicians rant, but let the bench ever remember its dignity and its duty. The hunting of the Trusts is perhaps legitimate sport for the politicians, but the administration of justice is a high moral obligation that should never be known passion, prejudice or influenced public opinion.

The Connelleville burglars are becoming ubiquitous. Instead of entering through the cellar they are now trying to break into the roof. Out West they are using Connelleville in hold-up operations. A new test has been that they are using aeroplanes in Connelleville. The spirit of enterprise in the center of the coke region is unappetizing not confined to legitimate business.

The barbed wire fence is often cruel to animals, and it is a question whether it should be permitted. It is not free from the suspicion of being a public nuisance.
The unsanitary outdoor closet has been practically legislated out of Connelleville, and none too soon. It is now the duty of the health authorities to see to it that the ordinance is enforced.
The Uniontown High Water Mark still wants to bet on its circulation. Better make another detailed sworn statement first. The record shows that The Courier has by odds the largest circulation of any paper published in Fayette county. We stand on the record, and that's where the Bluffing Brigade will have to stand however much they may bluster and brag and attempt to bully.

The Courier is not a Poker Organ. It doesn't bet. When necessary it just produces the figures.

The military invasion of Indiana is not 'unpleasant' to the inhabitants, especially the skittish skimmers.

The West Penn is unconventional. It just "drops in" occasionally.

The deadly fibrot has been at work in Somerset county.

Dictionary Day.

The Millers captured Killarney Park this week, but they withdrew in good order, though hotly pursued by political candidates.

The baby contest will be especially interesting to old bachelors.

Playing tag with the lightning is very exciting, but very dangerous sport.

Mount Pleasant is promised a park. Connelleville has as yet only a hope. However, we will not despair.

Skipping the board bill is a little game which frequently gets the papers entangled in the meshes of the law.

Garden parties are uncertain propositions this summer.

When the State demands a cup of milk the dairyman is held up.

Pennsylvania has two Democratic parties and fewer Democrats than ever.

The B. & O. managements have had a hair-raising for big locomotives ever since the days of the unhandsome but powerful tunnel-backs.

The expansion of the West Penn's lighting business has had an elevating effect upon its tried and trusted administration.

Looking Backward.

News of the Past Comes from the Files of The Courier.

Friday, July 21, 1884.
The Baltimore & Ohio have a large number of engineers engaged in running lines for a new road from Gratton, Va., to Uniontown.

The extension of the Southwest branch of the B. & O. into the borough of Mt. Pleasant is now considered a matter of doubt.

Mr. J. H. Rappert has been elected principal of the Uniontown public schools in place of O. J. Sturges, who will devote his whole attention to the B. & O. if the circus people are not crooks, they have crooked people following after them. While the butcher & Doria show was exhibiting in Uniontown Monday afternoon, a thief entered the dwelling of M. H. Bowman, cashier of the People's Bank, and stole a gold watch, two chains, bracelets, a revolver and other articles to the value of nearly $100. The thief was subsequently arrested and is now in jail.

Coke shipments have been slightly on the increase for the past two weeks.

The new brick store building at Lantons Furnace is completed. The foundation for the new store building at the Standard Mine of Frick & Company is completed and the brick is on the ground for the walls.

The forty additional acres at the Standard Mine of Frick & Company are now ready to fill in.

The coke business is already pushing itself outside of the old boundaries. There are now 250 acres in operation beyond Uniontown, and it is estimated that this number will be doubled within the next month.

The Baltimore & Ohio is building a new line from West Overton to the Moorewood mines of Frick & Company, to supply the place of the June Bug branch which is being abandoned.

The coke trade in that section seems to be worth going after.

The Town Council met in the National Bank Monday evening, the council chamber having been turned into a temporary hospital. The roll called showed Dunn, Purdy and Hood present. Mr. Purdy was elected president pro tem. Among the bills approved for payment were the following: W. Davis, policeman, $50; J. Jones, policeman, $50; Gas Company, $45.00. The gas company's bills were reduced from $75.00 to $45.00, the balance of $30.00 not in use for want of repairs, and the bill for April and May being made out a $15.00 instead of $115.00. A list of 7 not in use out of repair was presented and directed to be handed to the superintendent of the water company.

Friday, July 21, 1901.
Among the citizens of Fayette county sojourning at Atlantic City are the following: Hugh Coll, Connelleville; Dr. J. C. Bailey and H. L. Kurts, of Lebanon; J. H. Gray, Dunbar; G. H. Kaine and wife, John Lynch and W. H. Ryce of Uniontown.

It is rumored that the Cooley and Runkle causes have disappeared for parts unknown. The people of the southern end of the county are feeling very much pleased over this report, and they will be satisfied if the causes remain away. Frank Cooley has told a number of people, when holding them up, that he was trying to collect tribute enough to take him out of the county to the far west, and the inhabitants only hope that the last haul has been large enough to allow him to go.

At an election held last Saturday in Morgantown to decide whether or not license to sell liquor should be granted the "dry" won by a majority of 37 votes.

A strike among the Monongahela river miners is threatened after August 1, on account of the proposed reduction in the price of mining from 3 1/2 to 3 cents per bushel.

Coke production last week, 116,180 tons, shipments, 6,024 cars, ovens in operation, 11,225. Prices: Furnace coke, $1.00, foundry, $2.50.
Sheriff McCormick and the County Commissioners are at loggerheads over the action of the latter in reducing the cost for four months from 50 cents to 40 cents per day.

Friday, July 10, 1901.
Greensburg had a bread famine last week. The baker went on a strike and a bread was scarce at 25 cents a loaf.

William E. Crow of Uniontown has announced as a candidate for Congress in the new congressional district comprising Fayette, Greene and Somerset counties. The election will take place in the fall of 1902.

THE OLDEST INHABITANT HAS SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT.
The Oldest Inhabitant: By hank, that machine has certainly done some thing this summer. I wish the bin no thing would drop.

A heavy electric storm visited the York region last Wednesday. The power plants of both the Electric Company and the York Light, Heat & Power Company suffered. The Suburban Street Railway cars did not run for several hours after 3 o'clock when a bolt of lightning cut out their power. Many telephones were rendered useless and communication with some of the near-by towns was impossible until yesterday.

Judge Umbel handed down an important decision Monday afternoon. The temporary injunction granted at the instance of Newman and others to restrain the Town Council from erecting on the Public Grounds the proposed new Municipal Building, was dissolved. The council may then will appeal to the higher courts.

The following class that took the preliminary examination at Uniontown last week passed and are now full-fledged students: Leo Smith, T. J. Jones, Percy Cochran and Harry A. Cochran, of Uniontown; E. R. Goldsmith, Connelleville; L. D. Field, Smithfield, and L. D. Brown, Huble.

At a conference held last Friday in Pittsburgh between James Thompson, Lynch of the H. C. Frick Coke Company and J. H. Gary, Chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, it was decided to merge all the coke properties of the Federal Steel Company into the Dureau Fuel Company; all of the plants of the American Steel Wire Company into the American Coke Company and all those of the National Steel Company into the Continental Coke Company.

Coke production last week 130,431 tons, shipments 11,411 cars, ovens in operation, 10,942. Prices: Furnace $2.00 foundry, $2.50 per $2.75.

Your store and your goods need more advertising than the railroads need to do to warn people to "Look Out for the Cars."

Nothing is ever completed in the advertising world.

The Department Stores are a very good example—they are continually advertising—and they are continually doing a good business.

If it pays to run a few ads 'round about Christmas time, it certainly will pay you to run advertisements about all the time.

NO MAN'S LAND A ROMANCE

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

"Bo," Coast put the wheel over and brought the Echo round to that course, as indicated by the compass. Monotonously the chronometer in the cabin knelled the half-hour. About two bells (five o'clock) Appleyard began to fidget uneasily. He knocked out his pipe and, jumping up, trotted forward to the bows, where, arm embracing the mast, he remained for many minutes stubbornly peering ahead into dreary blackness which the keenest vision could by no means have penetrated.

After a while he returned, discouraged, to the cockpit. "I don't like this," he asserted glumly. "There's something gone wrong. We ought to have made the light over an hour ago. I've been expecting we'd run aground every minute of the last thirty."

"Sure you've got the course right?" "Absolutely," returned Coast with conviction.

"Then what the devil's the matter?" grumbled the little man. "Martha's Vineyard hasn't moved, I'll go ball; and we certainly couldn't hold that course as long as we have without striking land somewhere."

"We're Perfectly Safe Unless We're in Ship Channel."

Wagged a perturbed head, growling inarticulate dissatisfaction. "Let me think. . . . Something wrong. . . . What? . . . ? Wait!" he cried abruptly. "Maybe. . . . Hold that wheel steady for a bit, will you?"

Dropping to his knees he peered intently into the binoculars, at the same time opening the cut-off switch and disconnecting the batteries. The motor promptly coughed and was quiet, the dripping in the spark coil died away, and Coast, leaning forward in wonder, saw the compass dial jerk as if suddenly released and then swinging through an arc of almost slowly degrees as it steadied.

"What in thunder does that mean?" he demanded, surprised to the point of incredulity.

"Somebody's both axes of blooded lineage," said Appleyard sourly, rising; "though you're not a marker to me. I should've known better—I'd've thought of it right away if I had only half the sense God gives the domestic goose. That compass was right on top of the spark coil. Naturally it magnetized. . . . And I would've known better, too, if ever I had run an engine with the coil on the cylinder before! Oh—mild!"

"Then I've been holding the wrong course for several hours."

"Precisely."

"And you haven't any idea where we are?"

"Not a glimmer."

Thoroughly disheartened, Coast left the wheel. "Nice mess," he observed quietly.

Appleyard sighed profoundly. The worst of it is, I'm a saved-off little runt, too small for you to kick as I ought to be kicked. . . .

"Yes," said Coast.

They dined simply and solemnly on cold things, after which Appleyard, at his own suggestion, took the first watch. "You need rest," he argued, and I don't—rarely sleep over three hours a night. You turn in now and when your time's up, I'll call you. There's nothing to worry about, anyway; we're perfectly safe unless we're in ship channel, which I judge we ain't from the absence of any whistling herabouts."

Coast was really very tired and little loath to be persuaded. He dropped off instantly into dreamless sleep.

At some time during the night he was disturbed by a heavy splashing under the bows. He roused just enough to appreciate where he was, and lay staring drowsily at the cabin lamp until (he seemed to have dozed off again and again awakened) he was aware of Appleyard's presence in the cabin.

"Hello," he yawned, staring at the little man's head and shoulders as he sat on the other cushion, beyond the center-board trunk, busying himself over something invisible in his hands.

"What's up?"

"Sorry I waked you," returned Appleyard. His eyes flickered keenly over Coast's face for an instant. "We drifted around a few minutes ago," he explained in a perfunctory tone; "I pushed off with the sweep and anchored with a short cable."

"Whereabout d'you think we are?" Coast pursued sleepily.

"How should I know? Menemba. Right for choice, but it might be anywhere along the Vineyard Coast—possibly Pemaquid—or No Man's Land."

"What's that?"

"No Man's Land? Oh, a little island south of Gay Head, 'bout as big's a handkerchief. Practically uninhabited."

Appleyard rose. "What you doing?" Coast yawned extravagantly.

"Cleaning my pipe. Go on and sleep; your time's not up yet."

"What's o'clock?"

Appleyard mumbled something incoherent as he stepped out on deck; and Coast turned over and slept again.

It seemed hours later when he found himself abruptly wide awake, in a tremor of panic anxiety bred of a fancy that a human voice had cried out in mortal terror, somewhere within his hearing. He started up, informed by that sixth sense we call intuition that conditions abroad the Echo had changed radically since the last time he had fallen asleep; and it seemed no more than a second when the moment his eyes opened until he found himself in the cockpit, gazing dazedly into the inscrutable heart of the fog.

At first, in his confusion, he could see nothing amiss. The Echo was riding on a quiet tide and an even keel, with scarcely any perceptible motion. The encompassing darkness was intense, unfathomable, profound; only the forward light showed a dim halo of yellow opalescence near the mast-head, and the faint glow from the cabin lamp quivered on slowly swirling convolutions of dense white vapor, like smoke. The port and starboard lights had been extinguished, as they should be when a vessel comes to anchor.

What, then had interrupted his slumbers?

He turned with a question shaping on his lips.

Appleyard was nowhere visible.

Coast required some minutes before he was convinced of the fact of the little man's disappearance. But the cabin proved as empty as the cockpit, and the tender was gone.

The cabin chronometer chimed the hour of four in the morning.

As the echoes died, as though they had evoked the genius of that place, a strange and dreadful cry rent the silence, sounding shrill across the waters, yet as if coming from a great distance.

CHAPTER VII.

Some moments elapsed. Coast's every nerve and sense upon the rack. Though he heard it no more, still that cry rang in his head and he could but wait, smitten dumb and motionless, feeling his chilled flesh crawl, enthralled by fearsome shapes conjured up by an imagination striving vainly to account for what had happened—what it seemed. Intermittently, for what he hardly knew or guessed, unless it were for a repetition or some explanation of that inexplicable cry.

He received neither. His straining faculties detected none but familiar noises.

Incessantly he grew more calm. So silent was the world, seemingly so saturated with the spirit of brooding peace, that he was tempted to believe he had dreamed that first shriek, to which he had awakened, and that the second was but an echo of it in his brain: some hideous trick of nerves.

And yet? What of him? Was there any connection to be traced between his mysterious disappearance from the Echo and that weird, unearthly scream? Was there really land near, and had the little man found it only to become the victim of some frightful, nameless peril? Could that have been his voice, calling for help. . . . ? And in what dread extremity. . . . ?

There was nothing he could do, no way to tell the man. The tender was gone, the shore invisible—and who should say how far distant? Otherwise he would not have hesitated to swim for it.

Presently it occurred to him to wonder where the Echo lay—off what land. Appleyard's responses to his inquiries, several hours back, returned to memory. The name, No Man's Land, intrigued. He interrupted his vigil to investigate such sources of information as he had at hand.

In the cabin again, with the lamp turned high, he dragged out a chart—number 117 of the admirable series published by the Coast and Synodical Survey, delineating with wonderful accuracy the hydrography of Buzzard's Bay and Vineyard and Nantucket Sounds, together with the topography of the littoral and islands.

With pencil it was easy to trace the Echo's course from New Bedford harbor through Quik's Hole; a little to the east of which, say of Robinson's Hole, the fog had overtaken them. To the south and east of that point lay Martha's Vineyard, for all the world like a trusted fowl in profile. And there—yes, due south of Gay Head—was No Man's Land, its contour much that of an infant's shoe, the heel digging into the Atlantic. Comparison with the scale demonstrated it to be roughly a mile and five-eighths long by a mile wide—extreme measurements.

Coast stared at it with renewed interest, for the first time convinced of the existence of a spot so oddly named. A number of black dots along its northern shore seemed to indicate buildings—but Appleyard had distinctly said "uninhabited."

Coast turned out the lamp and went back to the deck.

There was nothing to be seen; nothing to do.

He dozed.

Then out of the confusion of his temper, in which enervated in singular companionship with perturbation, he chanced upon an odd end of thought, one of those stray bits of information, mostly culled from desultory reading, that clutter the back of every man's brain.

He happened to remember hearing some time, some where, that for rare fly clings to the surface of moving water; that, by putting one's vision upon a plane almost horizontal with the water, it is ordinarily possible to see for some distance roundabout.

"There may be something in it. . . . No harm to try."

Fortwith he scrambled out upon the stern, from which, after some intricate maneuvering and by dint of considerable physical ingenuity, he managed to suspend himself, at port of a ducking, with his head near the water.

He was promptly justified of his pains; the theory proved itself—in that one instance at least; between the slowly undulant floor, glassy and colorless, and the ragged fringe of the mist curtain, he discovered a definite space.

Directly astern and, roughly, some forty feet away, a shivering stretch of pebbly beach, softly lapped by low-voiced ripples, shut in the view. The Echo's tender, drawn up beyond the water's edge, dissected it.

"Good," said Coast, abstracted, recovering from his constrained position.

Curiously gripped him strongly, caution contending valiantly; he knew quite well that he would never blue cockpit until he had probed for the cause and source and solved the mystery of that wild cry in the night just gone.

Moreover, he felt in a measure responsible for Appleyard. Surely there must be some strange reason for his protracted absence.

Abandoning himself, deaf to the counsels of prudence, Coast rose and stripped off his clothing.

He let himself gently into the water (fearing to dive because he did not know its depth) and found it warmer than the air. He struck out cautiously, using the slow, old-fashioned but silent breast stroke. In two minutes, however, he was wading up to the beach.

There was no sign of Appleyard; only the tender. Upon that stone-strewn shore the foot of the runway had left no trail. Though Coast cast about in a wide radius, he found no sign of the missing man. The pebbles scratched and bruised his unprotected feet, and he began to shiver with cold. He gave it up, presently, returned to the tender, pushed off and sculled out to the Echo.

Then, having rubbed his flesh to a bluish with a coarse towel, he dressed, took the small boat back to the beach, drew it up and, now fully committed to an enterprise the folly of which he stubbornly refused to debate, set off to reconnoiter along the water's edge, feeling his way.

After a time the beach grew more sandy and embayed by the knobby edge that he would have his footprints to guide him back, he left the water and struck inland—but only to find his progress in that direction checked by a steep wall of earth, a cliff-like bluff of height indeterminate, its flanks wave-eroded and deeply seamed by rain.

At random, with no design, he turned again to his left and proceeded as before, but now along the foot of the bluff, trucking heavily through damp, yielding sand.

Still no sign of Appleyard.

He must have tramped, a rude guess, several hundred yards before he discovered either a break in the bluff or any change in the general configuration of the shore. Ultimately, however, the one fell away inland and the other widened.

A moment later he came upon a small catboat careened above high tide mark, with a gaping wound in its starboard side, forward and below the water-line.

NEWS OF A DAY IN SCOTSDALE.

Surprise Party Given for J. D. Porter at the Old Homestead.

SEVENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Large Number of the Family Gather Near Owensdale—Y. M. C. A. Celebrates the Fund Raising—Town Council Lets Contracts.

Special to The Courier, SCOTSDALE, July 22.—The seventy-seventh birthday anniversary of J. D. Porter was celebrated yesterday with a surprise party at the old homestead between Owensdale and Connelleville bridge. The farm is now occupied by their son-in-law, Detmar Cottom and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Porter came down from their home in Owensdale to spend the day. Members of the family and a few friends gathered in the forenoon. Alexander Porter took a number from Scottdale in a big hay wagon and the rest came otherwise until a good sized crowd was present.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Porter are enjoying good health and made every one welcome during the delightful day. A picnic dinner was brought from cupboards baskets and spread in the big orchard near the house, and after the singing of a hymn and grace by Mr. Porter the dinner was enjoyed.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Porter and children, Lucile, Percy, Kenneth and Louise, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Sticher and sons, Edward, Ben and Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Porter and children, Grace, Irene, Burton, William, Clair and Ruth.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Gault and sons, Ellis, Thomas, Wesley and daughter, Mary Ellen, Mr. and Mrs. Amel Gault of Uniontown, Mr. and Mrs. Detmar Cottom and children, Wendell and Nellie Marie, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Torrance, Miss Rebecca Porter, Alexander Porter, Mr. and Mrs. William Johnston and children, Mildred, Glenn and Gladys, George W. Speaker for Picnic.

W. C. Myers, of Eureka Grange, received an acceptance yesterday from H. C. Taggart, chairman of the State Grange, of the invitation of the Scottdale for him to come here and speak at the annual Grange picnic which will be held in Koller's grove, near Brownstown, on August 19. Several other notable speakers will be present at this outing, which is one of the popular events of the locality, and attracts many farmers and their friends from this section.

The Union Services.

The Union church services tomorrow evening will be held in the Baptist and the Methodist Episcopal churches. Just what ministers will be at the churches in the capacity of preachers is not known, the ministers being selected for the evening but a short time before.

Several of the elder ministers usually assist in the service. The choir of the church selected for any of the union meetings always has charge of the music, while the congregational singing is from the old, well known hymns.

Teacher is Visiting.

Miss Elsie Lynn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Lynn of Russdale, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Lester Porter of near town. Miss Lynn has for a number of years been a teacher in the Denver, Colorado, public schools, where the teachers are paid during the vacation months as well as during the ones in which they are engaged in teaching.

Morrow is Auctioneer.

Clarence Morrow, son of the late Col. J. C. Morrow, will cry the sale of 16 choice lots in North Scottdale, on July 29, as advertised on the last page of The Courier.

Y. M. C. A. Celebration.

Members of the executive committee, and the teams of the Y. M. C. A. held a celebration of the achievement of raising $50,000 for the new association building at the association rooms last evening. There were several informal speeches on the subject of the association and its work. Music was in the form of delightful violin solos by Miss Margaret Krichbaum and Miss Ethel Shupe. Refreshments were served by Mrs. G. F. Kelly, Mrs. Olive Hurst, Mrs. John Krichbaum, Mrs. J. Graft, Miss Hutchison, Miss Jessie Smith, Miss Ruth Jenko and Miss Irene McWilliams.

Council Meeting.

There was a brief council meeting last evening for the awarding of a contract for a concrete or stone retaining wall on Chestnut street and one on Stoner street, made necessary by the paving of the streets. Keenan & Perry received the contract for the Chestnut street concrete wall at $5.25 per cubic yard and Amel Shupe the contract for the stone wall on Stoner street at $3.25 a perch. It was decided that a sixteen roller will be all right for rolling the street grade, which must be to the satisfaction of the inspector.

ILL-FITTING LENSES INJURE THE EYE.

When one approaches the delicate structure of the eye, it is easily seen that the use of improper, incorrect, or ill-fitting lenses actually injure the eye instead of giving relief. You have probably observed that most persons who have eye troubles and need glasses or spectacles, or who wear spectacles or eye-glasses unsuited to their needs, often suffer from nervousness and disorders peculiar to the nervous system. Out of nervousness and nervous troubles, any of a multitude of other ailments often develop. The direct cause of all these disorders is nerve disturbance, which in many cases can be averted by immediate and proper attention to the eyes.

Would it not be sensible and rational to get at the cause of the condition? Would it not be wise to go to the source of this trouble—the eyes, and relieve it so that the headache, nervousness and its born of it will disappear?

If you are subject to headaches or nervousness, the chances are that it is caused by eyestrain, which can only be relieved by wearing glasses with specially ground lenses to fit your eyes.

But DON'T wear glasses unless prescribed and fitted by a reliable Optometrist or Oculist.

EXAMINATION FREE. OFFICE HOURS: 9 A. M. until 12 M. SCOTSDALE OFFICE HOURS: 1 to 6, 7 to 9.

Second Brigade Now Encamped

Special to The Courier.
INDIANA, Pa., July 22.—Over 3,000 officers and men, members of the Second Brigade, National Guard of Pennsylvania, were under canvas last night at Two Lick, five miles from here. From early morning until 7 o'clock last evening train loads of citizen soldiers were discharged at the temporary railroad stations which had been constructed by the Pennsylvania and Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh railroads near the camp.

Adj. James C. McNary of the division staff was detailed to report on the detrainment of the men and of the respective units. The Eighteenth and Tenth Infantry were credited with the highest percentage, with the Sixteenth and Fourteenth close seconds. The camp site is 1,200 feet above sea level and is in the form of an oblong, with brigade headquarters forming one side, the camps of the Eighteenth and Tenth forming another, the camps of Battery B, the Fourteenth and Sixteenth Infantry, the cavalry camps and the camp of the Signal Corps forming the third side, while the Lawrence electric plant and mine complete the rectangle. The camp is two and one-half miles in width, three and one-half miles in length and covers an area of eight square miles.

The detrainment of certain officers of the Second Brigade for the purpose of participating in the work of the United States army at the maneuver camp at Texas last spring is already bearing fruit at the camp here. In every regiment mess tents and cooking tents have been completely surrounded with muslin netting for the purpose of keeping away pest-carrying insects. Formerly these were open to the four winds, and at times eating was almost a painful operation on account of the pests that preyed upon the meat as well as on the eater.

Company I, Tenth Infantry, of Grounds, was complimented for its successful march to camp at Blairsville Thursday evening, where they spent the night, they were caught in the cloudburst. Their shelter tents prevented them from being drenched, although they were unable to keep the ground dry under them.

Big Military Tourney in Chicago. CHICAGO, Ill., July 22.—(Special.)—The great military tournament under the auspices of the Chicago Association of Commerce opened here today at Grant Park, to continue all through next week. Six thousand troops, representing the militia of Illinois and several other States, regular troops from Fort Sheridan and British troops from Canada, will take part in the tournament.

Long Prizes for Blooded Canines. LONG BRANCH, N. J., July 21.—(Special.)—The fourth annual bench show of the Monmouth County Kennel Club will be held at the Hollywood grounds tomorrow, with more than 750 entries representing famous kennels in many parts of the country.

PAINFUL TROUBLE WITH FINGER NAILS

Sometimes Three Fingers Without Nails at One Time. Began 25 Years Ago. No Permanent Cure. Began to Use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In a Short Time Nails Were Well. No Further Trouble.

"I have suffered from the same trouble (painful finger nails) at different periods of my life. The first time of its occurrence, perhaps twenty-two years ago, after trying home remedies without getting helped, I asked my doctor to prescribe for me, but it was not for a year or more that my nails and fingers were well. I then used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had used the Cuticura Ointment previously on my children's scales with good results, but the soap exclusively, but I rubbed the Cuticura Ointment into the base of the nail, and night thorough, and as often as I could. I had not used it but a few weeks before my nails were better, and in a short time they were apparently well. There was more suppuration, and inflammation, the nails grew out a red skin. One of my children, a son, aged 10, on Sept. 21, Mrs. Horton wrote: 'I have no further return of the trouble with my finger nails. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold through the world. Send to Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 510, New York City, for a sample of each, post-free, with 50¢ book on skin ailments.'"
